The frequency of any disclosure of personally identifiable information varies in accordance with our business needs and activities. The Communications Act authorizes Dish Network to disclose limited personally identifiable information to others, such as charities, marketing organizations, or other businesses, for satellite or non-satellite "mailing list" or other purposes. From time to time we may disclose your name and address for these purposes. This information may be obtained without a court order and does not require that a subscriber be given notice of and the opportunity to contest the disclosure. We may also use or disclose personally identifiable information about you in court or elsewhere without your consent to protect our customers, employees, or property; in emergency situations; and to enforce our rights under our terms of service and policies.

Protection of personally identifiable information

We follow industry-standard practices to take such actions that are necessary to prevent unauthorized access to personally identifiable information by a person other than the subscriber or us. We cannot, however, guarantee that these practices will prevent every unauthorized attempt to access, use, or disclose personally identifiable information.

Maintaining personally identifiable information

These purposes typically include business, legal, or tax purposes. If there are no pending requests, orders, or court orders for access to this personally identifiable information, we will destroy the information after it is no longer necessary for the purposes for which it was collected.

In order to protect you and ensure that the request is being made by the true person to whom the information pertains, we will only process notarized requests. You will be provided a reasonable opportunity to correct errors if any of the personally identifiable information is inaccurate.

Recourse for violation of your privacy rights

If you believe that you have been aggrieved by any act of ours in violation of the Communications Act, you may enforce the limitations imposed on us by the Communications Act with respect to your personally identifiable information through a civil lawsuit brought in a United States District Court seeking damages, attorney's fees, and litigation costs reasonably incurred. Other rights and remedies may be available to you under federal or other applicable laws, as well.
